

DE VIGILANT.
Boston Journal.—The American yacht has won the cup, now let the American party win the election.

CANNOT BE IMPROVED ON.
Hardware.—There are two things in the world upon which there has never been any improvement—the wheelbarrow and kissing.

WAITING FOR WORD FROM WASHINGTON.

Philadelphia Record.—Iron, steel, glass and textile mills and factories which have been able are starting up in various parts of the country. The imports should give the world there would be a general improvement such as that which followed the business slump of 1884. All the country desires to know is whether or not an invested dollar will find its way back again to the hand of the investor with an undiminished purchasing capacity.

KLOQUENCE OVER VIGILANT'S VICTORY.

Philadelphia Press.—The hand of the American shipwright has not lost its cunning, and the fingers of the American sailor can still touch a tiller to such purpose as no other seafaring hand can equal. On sea forever rests empire, and in peace or in war this land, braced between the oceans, is served as none other in the world around. As our aces fill and our factories multiply a great marine expansion is sure to come. Already it is near. We left the ocean supreme. We will return to it without an equal.

DRAINING THE TREASURY OF GOLD.

New York World.—Now that the artificial support of speculative gold in ports is withdrawn the Treasury's stock of gold is again steadily diminishing. It is now less than ever before, having sunk $1,000,000 below the minimum of June. It goes down under the continued drain created by the operation of the Silver Purchase law, and if that law is retained in force, either in its present shape or somewhat modified, the deficit must continue until the Treasury's supply shall be completely exhausted. Then will come enforced silver payment, a lapse to the silver dollar standard, an enormous change of values and a ruinous contraction of the currency. The effort to force a vote in the Senate has come none too soon.

JOE BLACKBURN TOUCHED UP.

Judge Finley in the Louisville Sunday Democrat.—Squatter Blackburn had added to the esteem in which he has been held in Kentucky by his action upon the silver question. In fact it is doubtful if Squatter Blackburn has ever done very much to merit the applause of his state. He secured the appointment of his brother to the Marshalsey of the state, but if he ever did anything for anyone else, it has not been made very apparent. His only recent appearance in legislation has been as an obstructionist against a measure which at least nine out of every ten Kentuckians believed should be adopted. Will the state remember this when the next election comes around?

ROTHSCHILD'S MAXIMS.

Agenda Prudentia.—The elder Baron Rothschild had the walls of his bank plastered with the following curious maxims:

Carefully examine every detail of your business.

Be prompt in everything.

Take time to consider, but decide positively.

Dare to go forward.

Bear troubles patiently.

Be brave in the struggle of life.

Maintain your integrity as a sacred thing.

Never tell business lies.

Make no useless acquaintances.

Never expect something more than you are.

Pay your debts promptly.

Shun strong liquor.

Employ your time well.

Do not recklessly chance.

Be polite to everybody.

Never be discouraged.

Their work hard and you will be certain to succeed.

A LAW-ABIDING PEOPLE.

Baltimore American.—The conviction of Emma Goldman, the Anarchist, of attempting to excite others, among whom she was regarded as a leader, to deeds of violence, should prove to Anarchists everywhere that Americans are law-abiding people. The plot that mercy should show her because she was a woman could have no effect on the jury. In fact, it made the case against her the stronger, and gave her a greater power over her excited audience than any man could have gained.

In open court she declared that she believed in neither the laws of God nor the laws of man. To her belief she had a right, but when she carries that belief to the extent of urging men to rob and plunder, she renders herself liable to arrest, and it is the law's duty to show her that it is supreme. Under the law she has made herself liable to a heavy fine or a year in prison. Her fate should teach her followers a lesson. They may not be liable in law, but they cannot violate it without suffering the consequence.

The recent figures furnished by the Census Office regarding children under 10 years of age show that there were 5,863,000 whites
of native parents, 3-

Foreign 35,000 whites of Element Gaining, foreign parents and 2,156,000 colored.

It is interesting to compare these figures with the population at the previous census of 1880 between the ages of 20 and 44 years; for the children under 10 years of age at the recent census would represent the offspring from the population between 20 and 44 years of age at the previous census, and if we compare the figures in this way we find that for every 100 native whites between 20 and 44 years of age at the census of 1880 there are 73 native whites of native parents less than 10 years of age at the census of 1890. On the other hand, however, we find that for every 100 foreign born whites at the census of 1890 there are 108 native whites of foreign parents under 10 years of age at the census of 1890.

This figure, 108, is a trifling high for purposes of comparison, because among the children of foreign parents are included those having one or both parents foreign born. Some of these, therefore, are, to a certain extent, of native parentage.

Still, the proportion having this mixture of native and foreign parents would not exceed 15 per cent., one-half of which should be deducted from the above figures, leaving us a net result of about 100 children under 10 years per 100 of foreign population, as against 90
children per 100 of native population.
This, it will be seen, shows a rapid relative increase of the children of foreign parents. The experiences of previous censuses unfortunately cannot be determined, due to the fact that in no census prior to that of 1890 has the distinction been made between the native of native parents and the native of foreign parents in the tabulations of our population. Were such a distinction possible, however,
a comparison of the rate of increase of those having given birth to those of previous censuses would be exceedingly interesting and valuable. As it is, the figures indicate a relative gain in our foreign element much more rapid than that of our native element.

A comparison of like figures for the colored population is also exceedingly interesting, for this shows that for every 100 of total colored population between 20 and 44 years of age at the census of 1890 we now find, with the census of 1880, 96 colored children less than 10
years of age.

A comparison of like figures for the
colored population is also exceedingly
interesting, for this shows that for every 100 of total colored population between
20 and 44 years of age at the census of 1890 we now find, with the census of 1880, 96 colored children less than 10
years of age.

The man with the negligee shirt was talking of hard luck, says the Buffalo Express. "It's just this way," he said:
"When things get to going against you there's no getting away from it.
I had a hard luck run in with every man and when things get to coming your way there's no stopping them any more than there is when they get to going against you."

"As an illustration let me tell you of an experience I had. About three years ago I began to have hard luck. I lost everything I had one day or another, and got into all sorts of trouble. Finally I landed in Richmond, Va., stone dead, without a friend to whom I could apply for help, and when I had a hard luck run in with every
man. I could get nothing to do
in Richmond, and I started out to tramp up north."

"It was as hot as tophet. I tramped along day after day, tramping on the ground, and scarcely what I had to eat, which was not much, let me assure
you. One day I struck Stony Creek, which is in a wild part of the state. I followed up along the creek until I reached some mountains, and then I had a hard luck run in with every man. I could get nothing to do
in Richmond, and I started out to
tramp up north."

BLACK AND WHITE.

Serious Race War Immunes in An Arkansas County.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 18.—The blacks and whites in Perry county are arming and a race war is imminent. Monday J. B. Seallion was captured in a skirmish with a colored man, James S. Sartoris, who was suspected of robbing a store on Mr. Seallion's place about the middle of September. A courier reached this city late Tuesday, bringing the information that the blacks of Perry county had armed themselves and were congregating around Perryville, and serious trouble is feared.

He spread the news along the route, and the whites are also making for the scene of trouble.

Mr. Foust was also found short about $800 in some guardian trust funds which are secured to him. He gave for the security with a five-hundred-dollar note due the First national bank here. Mr. William C. Blamer has been elected cashier in Mr. Foust's place.

A DANCE

That Cost Thirteen Human Lives.—Terrific Arafay at Which the Drirk and Athlete Raged Unquelled.

V. A. FARNHAM, Ind., Oct. 18.—Thirteen bruised and mangled bodies lie in the station house at Whiting, Lake county. Monday night a dance at the town hall had a bloody ending. It was a battle waged to the bitter end between Poles and Indians who had taken possession of the hall for the purpose of giving a dance. The officers were unable to quell the riot, and the drirk and athlete waged a relentless conflict. John Poshanski was literally scalped alive, while a dagger thrust severed the jugular vein of another dancer. The rioters were driven from the hall, only to add to the horror of the affray. A large number of arrests have been made.

GOONUD DEAD.

Creator of "Panzi" Is No More.—Apoplexy Carried Him Off in a Few Hours.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Charles Francis Gounod, the great composer, died Tuesday morning at his residence in the West End. He attended mass Sunday, and apparently was enjoying his usual health. In the afternoon the organist Contur and several singers went to his house. Gounod joined them with the performance of the Mass. He died in the evening with great serenity and full peace. Almost at the last moment his pulse faltered and he fell to the floor, and remained unconscious until death.

LATER.—At 10 o'clock Tuesday night Mr. Gounod was still breathing, but his death was momentarily expected.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

At the junction with the Valley road spikes were driven into the interlocking switch. The switch was then cut, the arrival of the first and second sections of the train. The obstruction was discovered by the engineer and fireman of a switching engine just ahead of the express, which was a long train of crowded Pullmans.

Miss H. R. Rector.

GRANDE PINE, N. Y., Oct. 18.—The Express Company loses $50,000. Mr. Louis C. Ayer, president of the Express Co. is investigating the loss of nearly $50,000 of money in transit between New York and New Orleans. The money was shipped from New York, and consigned to New Orleans, but when it was to be taken to the latter city the money was found to be missing. It is suspected the money was lost in transit between this city and New Orleans.
